- Whether the Related Party Transaction would impair the independence of an otherwise independent director or nominee for director;
- Whether the Company was notified about the Related Party Transaction before its commencement and if not, why pre-approval was not sought and whether subsequent ratification would be detrimental to the Company; and
- Whether the Related Party Transaction would present an improper conflict of interest for any director, nominee for director or Key Managerial Personnel of the Company.

In any case where the Audit Committee and / or the Board determines not to ratify a Related Party Transaction that has been commenced without approval, the Audit Committee / Board as the case may be may direct additional actions including, but not limited to, immediate discontinuation or rescission of the transaction, or modification of the transaction to make it acceptable for ratification.

- (e) If services are commonly required and the sharing of charges is based on its share of avilment of the total volume of services;

Tests to be applied for determining whether a Related Party Transactions is at Arm's Length or not:

A. Comparable Uncontrolled Price Method (hereinafter referred to as 'CUP Method')

CUP has been defined as a price charged by an entity to another independent entity in an uncontrolled transaction. In this method, the price charged or paid in a comparable uncontrolled transaction is identified and adjusted to account for the differences between the controlled transaction and the uncontrolled transaction. This adjusted price is taken to be the arm's length price in relation to the transaction between the Related Parties.

B. Resale Price Method (hereinafter referred to as 'RPM')

This method is to be applied when a property purchased or services obtained from a Related Party is resold to an unrelated party. In this case, the resale price of the goods is reduced by the expenditure and the normal gross profit margin that would have been incurred / earned by an unrelated party in a similar transaction. The price so arrived at is adjusted for any differences, including differences in accounting practices as well as the differences between the transactions being compared and/ or between the parties entering into such transactions, to arrive at an arm's length price.

C. Cost Plus Method (hereinafter referred to as 'CPM')

CPM is used in respect of the transfer of goods, intangible property or service provided by one Related Party to another. The gross profit mark-up arising from the provisions of same or similar property or services by an assessee or by an unrelated party in a comparable uncontrolled transaction is identified. The gross profit mark-up of the comparable uncontrolled transaction must be computed as per the same accounting norms as used by the assessee. This mark-up is adjusted to take into account the differences in the functions and other aspects of the controlled transaction and the uncontrolled transaction or the party entering into such transactions which could materially affect the mark-up in open market. The direct and indirect costs of production incurred in respect of the goods/intangible properties/services are increased by the adjusted gross profit mark-up to arrive at the arm's length price.

D. Profit Split Method (hereinafter referred to as 'PSM')

This method may be used in the transactions involving transfer of unique intangibles or in multiple transactions amongst Related Parties, where the transactions are so interrelated that they cannot be valued separately for the purpose of determining the arm's length price of any one transaction. Under this method the combined net profit of all Related Parties from all interrelated transactions are determined. The relative contribution of each Related Party is evaluated on the basis of the functions performed, the assets utilized, risks assumed, etc. The combined net profits are then split amongst the Related Parties in proportion of their relative contribution and this apportioned profit is taken into account to arrive at the arm's length price in relation to the transaction. Alternatively, the combined net profits may be first partially allocated to each Related Party to provide it with an appropriate basic return and the residual net profit should then be split amongst the Related Parties in proportion of their relative contribution.

E. Transactional Net Margin Method (hereinafter referred to as 'TNMM')

Under this method, the net profit margin realized by a Related Party from an transaction is computed in relation to a particular factor such as costs incurred, sales, assets utilized, etc. The net profit margin realized by a Company or an unrelated party from a comparable uncontrolled transaction is computed having regard to the same factor and adjustments are made to the net profit margin to take into account the differences between the controlled transaction and the uncontrolled transaction. The net profit margin realized by the Related Party is established in conformity with the net profit margin of the uncontrolled transaction to arrive at the arm's length price.

F. Other Methods including other methods as may be prescribed by the Central Board of Direct Taxes (“CBDT”)

The CBDT vide notification dated May 23, 2012, by inserting new Rule 10AB in the Income Tax (Rules) 1962, has now prescribed “other method” for determination of arm’s length price of an international transaction. As per the aforesaid new rule, the “other method” shall be any method which takes into account the price which:-

The CFO/ Head of Finance of the Company shall ensure that the Related Party Transactions entered into in ordinary course and at an arm’s length are supported by requisite documentation to substantiate the compliance of policy. The note/s submitted to the Audit Committee and the Board seeking their approval/ratification will, inter alia, clearly state which tests have been applied while categorizing the RPTs as “in ordinary course of business” and “at arm’s length”.
